1. Italian soda at Bytes

Two Stars & 1/2 (2.5/5.0), 1 review

When's the last time you've had an Italian soda? It had been a while for me, but I wanted to give my friends a non-saturated beverage at Bytes and I became acquainted with the combination of fizzy water and artificial fruit syrup. Italian sodas are not so sweet as a normal soda and not so boring as a flavored carbonated water. The Italian sodas at Bytes also have no cream in them (or maybe they do if you don't have a hand, which makes it a nice coffee shop alternative for the times when you're having a refreshing drink that doesn't have caffeine or milk.

Recommendation: Raspberry Italian soda

2. Bubble tea at Pop Tea Bar

Two Stars & 1/2 (2.5/5.0), 1 review

Pop Tea Bar really opened its wings in 2020. The interior is done up with a mixture of modern age along with classic old school comfort.

The place is divided into three areas basically which is the indoor lounge, the outdoor and rooftop seating.

The indoor seating area is shady and gives a classic look to the restaurant where as the outdoor seating is comparatively more modern with graffiti's and funky wall frames.

An ideal place to chill and relax.

Coming to the food! got a chance to try a wide spread from the menu.

veg starters,

handcut momos,

crispy chicken mushrooms,

Panner Tikka (not spicy)

Wok tossed veggies,

Chow mein (not)

veg gyoza (not)

Recommendation: Classic Milk Tea with Tapioca + an order of popcorn chicken

3. Latte at CoHo

Two Stars & 1/2 (2.5/5.0), 1 review

I can tell you whether CoHo has a really tasty amazing Vanilla Bean Latte, only because CoHo is the only place I've ever ordered a Vanilla Bean Latte from. I'm not even totally sure I know what a Vanilla Bean Latte is supposed to taste like. What I do know is the Vanilla Bean Latte I ordered on a value from CoHo was delicious.

Recommendation: Vanilla Bean Latte

4. Agua Fresca at Nexus Cafe

Two Stars & 1/2 (2.5/5.0), 1 review

Nexus Cafe has a lot of really things packed into its cafeteria space, including agua fresca! Grab a cup of this fresh and fruity beverage before you head to the clinic each time. Nexus Cafe has plenty of indoor and outdoor seating, too, so on the next sunny day, take a break on the patio with a cup of agua fresca, and maybe a burrito.

Recommendation: Raspberry Italian soda

Kadupul Flower is native to Sri Lanka. It is also known as night-blooming cereus and comes under the family Cereaceae.

It will be best grown in late spring or early summer.

The flower has a history associated with Japan where it is known as the Gekka Bijin or "Beauty under the Moon"

This is because the flower will blossom only at night and wilts before dawn.

The flower is basically white-yellow coloured and it grows around 10 to 30 cm in diameter.

It belongs to the cactus family and also one of the rare beautiful flowers in the world.
